Objective

The main objective is to equip participants with the knowledge and tools needed to independently manage international trade operations, with a special focus on correctly applying Incoterms rules and handling international payment methods from negotiation through to final settlement.

Target audience

This course is specifically designed for individuals and professionals involved in international trade. It is ideal for exporters and importers within small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs), as well as managers in marketing, sales, purchasing, and logistics. Additionally, commercial lawyers, trade or business management consultants, as well as professionals from large companies, will benefit from this training. Bankers working in trade finance departments, handling legal and related tasks, will also find the course invaluable for enhancing their expertise in global trade practices.
